Case No. 4:19-cv-00035-TUC-RM (LAB)

OBJECTION TO REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION (DOC. 46)

1 Plaintiff, Dr. Russell Toomey, respectfully submits this Objection to the portion of 2 the Magistrate Judge’s Report & Recommendation regarding dismissal of his claims for 3 sex discrimination under Title VII. (Doc. 46, pp. 5-8).

5 I. Under Price Waterhouse, the “Gender Reassignment Exclusion” Facially
6 Discriminates Based on Sex.

7 As explained in Dr. Toomey’s Response to the State Defendants’ Motion to 8 Dismiss, (Doc. 39, pp. 5-6), sex discrimination under Title VII includes discrimination
9 based on a person’s gender nonconformity. The Supreme Court held in Price Waterhouse
10 v. Hopkins, 490 U.S. 228, 251 (1989) (plurality), that “assuming or insisting that 11 [individual men and women] match[] the stereotype associated with their group” is 12 discrimination because of sex under Title VII. The plaintiff in Price Waterhouse, Ann
13 Hopkins, was a female senior manager who was advised that if she wanted to become a 14 partner in the firm she should be less “macho,” take “a course in charm school,” “walk 15 more femininely, talk more femininely, dress more femininely, wear make-up, have her
16 hair styled, and wear jewelry.” Id. at 235. The Supreme Court held that discriminating 17 against Ms. Hopkins on these grounds was discrimination because of sex.
18

21 In Schwenk v. Hartford, 204 F.3d 1187 (9th Cir. 2000), the Ninth Circuit applied 22 Price Waterhouse to discrimination against a transgender prisoner. The plaintiff in 23 Schwenk was a transgender woman who was attacked by a male prison guard. The 24 defendant argued that that the attack “occurred because of Schwenk’s transsexuality,” 25 which—according to the defendant, “is not an element of gender but rather constitutes 26
27
28

1 gender dysphoria, a psychiatric illness.” Id. at 1195. The Ninth Circuit rejected that 2 distinction. The Ninth Circuit explained that transgender individuals are people “whose 3 outward behavior and inward identity do not meet social definitions” associated with the 4 sex assigned to them at birth, id. at 1201, and “[d]iscrimination because one fails to act in 5 the way expected of a man or woman is forbidden under” Price Waterhouse as sex
6 discrimination, id. at 1202.

9 Applying the Supreme Court’s decision in Price Waterhouse and the Ninth Circuit
10 decision in Schwenk, district courts within this Circuit have consistently recognized that 11 discrimination based on a person’s transgender or transitioning status inherently constitutes 12 “sex” discrimination under Title VII and other civil rights statutes. See Prescott v. Rady
13 Children’s Hosp.-San Diego, 265 F. Supp. 3d 1090, 1099 (S.D. Cal. 2017) (concluding 14 based on Schwenk that “discrimination on the basis of transgender identity is discrimination
15 on the basis of sex”); Roberts v. Clark Cty. Sch. Dist., 215 F. Supp. 3d 1001, 1014 (D. Nev.
16 2016) (concluding based on Schwenk that “gender-identity discrimination is actionable
17 under Title VII”); Norsworthy v. Beard, 87 F. Supp. 3d 1104, 1119 (N.D. Cal. 2015)
18 (concluding based on Schwenk that “discrimination against transgender individuals is a 19 form of gender-based discrimination subject to intermediate scrutiny”); see also Stockman
20 v. Trump, No. EDCV171799JGBKKX, 2017 WL 9732572, at *15 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 22, 21 2017) (reasoning that Schwenk “strongly suggested that discrimination on the basis of one’s 22 transgender status is equivalent to sex-based discrimination”). Judge Berzon has 23 interpreted Schwenk the same way. See Latta v. Otter, 771 F.3d 456, 495 n.12 (9th Cir.
24
26
27
28

1 2014) (Berzon, J., concurring) (citing Schwenk for the proposition that “discrimination on 2 the basis of transgender status is also gender discrimination”).

4 Outside this Circuit, the Sixth, Seventh, and Eleventh Circuits have similarly held
5 that discrimination against transgender or transitioning individuals is inherently sex
6 discrimination under Price Waterhouse. “By definition, a transgender individual does not 7 conform to the sex-based stereotypes of the sex that he or she was assigned at birth.”
9 Whitaker v. Kenosha Unified Sch. Dist. No. 1 Bd. of Educ., 858 F.3d 1034, 1048 (7th Cir.
10 2017); accord EEOC v. R.G. & G.R. Harris Funeral Homes, Inc., 884 F.3d 560, 577 (6th
11 Cir. 2018), petition for cert granted, 139 S. Ct. 1599 (Apr. 22, 2019); Glenn v. Brumby, 12 663 F.3d 1312, 1316 (11th Cir. 2011). And “transitioning status constitutes an inherently
13 gender non-conforming trait.” Harris Funeral Homes, 884 F.3d at 577; accord Glenn, 663
14 F.3d at 1314 (firing employee because of her “intended gender transition” is sex 15 discrimination). “[D]iscriminating on the basis that an individual was going to, had, or was 16 in the process of changing their sex—or the most pronounced physical characteristics of 17 their sex—is still discrimination based on sex.” Flack v. Wis. Dep’t of Health Servs., 328
18 F. Supp. 3d 931, 949 (W.D. Wis. 2018); cf. Kastl v. Maricopa Cty. Cmty. Coll. Dist., No.
19 02-1531, 2004 WL 2008954, at *2 (D. Ariz. June 3, 2004) (“[N]either a woman with male 20 genitalia nor a man with stereotypically female anatomy, such as breasts, may be deprived 21 of a benefit or privilege of employment by reason of that nonconforming trait.”).

22 Applying these principles, courts across the country have recognized that insurance 23 and health care policies that categorically exclude coverage for transition-related 24
26
27
28

1 healthcare facially discriminate on the basis of “sex” under Title VII and other civil rights
2 statutes. See Boyden v. Conlin, 17-cv-264-WMC, 2018 WL 4473347 (W.D. Wis. Sept. 18,
3 2018) (exclusion in State employee health plan discriminated based on sex under Title VII
4 and Equal Protection Clause); Tovar v. Essentia Health, No. CV 16-100 (DWF/LIB), 2018
5 WL 4516949, at *3 (D. Minn. Sept. 20, 2018) (plaintiff stated valid claim that exclusion in 6 insurance plan discriminated based on sex in violation of Section 1557 of the Affordable
7 Care Act); Flack, 2018 WL 3574875, at *12-*16 (plaintiffs granted preliminary injunction
8 on claims that exclusion in Wisconsin Medicaid statute discriminated based on sex in 9 violation of Section 1557 of the Affordable Care Act and the Equal Protection Clause);
10 Norsworthy, 87 F. Supp. 3d at 1118-21 (plaintiff stated valid claim that exclusion in prison
11 healthcare policy constituted sex discrimination in violation of Equal Protection Clause).

12
14
15
16 Like the exclusions at issue in other cases, the “gender reassignment surgery”
17 exclusion at issue in Arizona’s State employee health plan targets transition-related surgery 18 precisely because the healthcare is being provided for a gender non-conforming purpose of 19 gender transition. Dr. Toomey’s hysterectomy would be covered if it were medically 20 necessary treatment for other medical conditions, but because his hysterectomy is for the 21 gender-nonconforming purpose of gender transition, the “gender reassignment surgery”
22 provision categorically excludes it from coverage regardless of medical necessity. By 23 categorically excluding coverage on this basis, State Defendants are impermissibly
24 “insisting that [employees’ anatomy] match[] the stereotype associated with their” sex
25 assigned at birth, Price Waterhouse, 490 U.S. at 251, and “imposing . . . stereotypical 26
27
28

1 notions of how sexual organs and gender identity ought to align,” Harris Funeral Homes,
2 884 F.3d at 576. As another district court explained, “the Exclusion entrenches the belief
3 that transgender individuals must preserve the genitalia and other physical attributes of 4 their natal sex over not just personal preference, but specific medical and psychological
5 recommendations to the contrary.” Boyden, 2018 WL 4473347, at *13.

8 For all these reasons, Dr. Toomey has stated a valid claim for sex discrimination
9 under Title VII.

10 II. The Magistrate Judge Mischaracterized Schwenk and Misapplied
11 Manhart*’s “But For” Test.

12 In recommending that the Title VII claim be dismissed, the Magistrate Judge did 13 not discuss or distinguish any of foregoing cases. Ignoring Price Waterhouse entirely, the 14 Magistrate Judge re-characterized Schwenk as “a straightforward application of” City of 15 Los Angeles, Dep’t of Water & Power v. Manhart, 435 U.S. 702 (1978). (Doc. 46, p.8).
16 In Manhart, the Supreme Court held that a discriminatory life insurance policy violated
17 Title VII because it did “not pass the simple test of whether the evidence shows treatment
18 of a person in a manner which but for that person’s sex would be different.” Id. at 711
19 (internal quotation marks omitted). The Magistrate Judge reasoned that the prison guard’s 20 attack in Schwenk was sex discrimination under Manhart’s “simple test” because “[t]he 21 evidence presented at summary judgment suggested that [the guard] was attracted to males
22 who displayed feminine characteristics. If Schwenk were female (that is, if the sex assigned 23 to her at birth was female) rather than male and displayed the same feminine appearance
26
27
28

1 and demeanor that Schwenk displayed, then the attack would not have occurred.” (Doc.
2 46, p. 8). By contrast, the Magistrate Judge reasoned, Dr. Toomey could not show “that the
3 Plan exclusion would not apply if his sex [assigned at birth] were different.” (Id. at 6).

5 The conclusion was fundamentally flawed in at least three respects.

6 First, the Magistrate Judge’s re-characterization of Schwenk rests on a mistaken
7 factual premise. The Magistrate Judge assumed that “[if] Schwenk were female (that is, if 8 the sex assigned to her at birth was female) rather than male and displayed the same 9 feminine appearance and demeanor that Schwenk displayed, then the attack would not have 10 occurred.” (Id. at 8). But Schwenk “was incarcerated in the all-male Washington State 11 Penitentiary.” Schwenk, 204 F.3d at 1193 (emphasis added). The prison guard was 12 attracted to the plaintiff’s “assumption of a feminine rather than a typically masculine 13 appearance or demeanor,” and he offered “to bring her make-up and ‘girl stuff’ from 14 outside the prison in order to enhance the femininity of her appearance.” Id. at 1202.
15 Nothing in the Schwenk opinion supports the Magistrate Judge’s assumption that the prison
16 guard preferred to sexually assault transgender women instead of cisgender women if given 17 the opportunity. To the contrary, the court cited to psychological literature indicating that 18 “prison rapists strongly resist the characterization of their activities as homosexual. Instead, 19 they conceive their sexual partners as female members of the prison social order.” Id. at 20 1203 n.14.

22
23
26 Second, the Ninth Circuit in Schwenk never cited to Manhart or purported to be a 27 straightforward application of the Manhart test. Instead, the Ninth Circuit grounded its 28

1 analysis in Price Waterhouse and its protections from discrimination based on gender
2 nonconformity. But in applying Schwenk, the Magistrate Judge focused exclusively on 3 Manhart without discussing Price Waterhouse at all. As a result, the Magistrate Judge
4 never addressed the overwhelming number of cases both inside and outside the Ninth
5 Circuit holding that discrimination against transgender individuals is inherently
6 discrimination based on gender conformity under Price Waterhouse. The Magistrate Judge
7 also never addressed cases applying that principle in the specific context of insurance
8 exclusions like the one at issue in this case.

11 Third, despite the Magistrate Judge’s assumption to the contrary, Dr. Toomey can 12 show that he was treated in a manner that but for his sex assigned at birth would have been 13 different.<sup>1</sup> Dr. Toomey requires a hysterectomy as medically necessary treatment to align 14 his body with his male identity. Because Dr. Toomey was assigned a female sex at birth, 15 his surgery is categorically excluded from coverage as “gender reassignment surgery”
16 without regard to medical necessity. By contrast, the exclusion would not apply to a man 17
19
20

21 <sup>1</sup> The Magistrate Judge appeared to equate “sex” under Title VII with sex assigned at birth.
22 But Schwenk explicitly rejected that “narrow” definition of the term. Schwenk explained
23 that under Price Waterhouse the term “sex” in Title VII includes characteristics
24 sometimes referred to as “gender,” such as masculinity, femininity, and “sexual identity.”
25 Schwenk, 204 F.3d at 1201-02. Other courts have increasingly recognized that the 26 ordinary definition of the term “sex” in 1964 and today recognized, includes both 27 physical attributes of sex, as well as cultural and behavioral ones. See G.G. ex rel. Grimm 28 v. Gloucester Cty. Sch. Bd., 822 F.3d 709, 722 (4th Cir. 2016) (collecting dictionary definitions), vacated and remanded on other grounds, 137 S. Ct. 1239 (2017); Fabian v.
Hosp. Cent. Of Conn., 172 F. Supp. 3d 509, 526 (D. Conn. 2016) (same); “sex, n. 4a,” OED Online, Oxford University Press (defining sex as “a social or cultural phenomenon, and its manifestations” and collecting definitions dating back to 1651). In this case, Dr.
Toomey has established sex discrimination even under the Magistrate Judge’s narrow definition of the term.

1 with male sex assigned at birth who was born with a uterus and fallopian tubes as a result
2 of Persistent Mullerian Duct Syndrome (“PMDS”).<sup>2</sup> Cf. Flack, 328 F. Supp. 3d at 948
3 (explaining that exclusion of transition related care from Wisconsin’s Medicaid program 4 discriminated based on sex assigned at birth because “if a natal female were born without
5 a vagina, she could have surgery to create one, which would be covered by Wisconsin
6 Medicaid if deemed medically necessary” but “a natal male suffering from gender
7 dysphoria would be denied the same medically necessary procedure because of her sex”).

10 More generally, Dr. Toomey’s sex assigned at birth is part of what makes him
11 transgender. The Magistrate Judge reasoned that “[t]here will be times when discrimination
12 against a transgender individual does violate Title VII, but only where the plaintiff presents
13 evidence showing that the discriminatory behavior would not occur if the plaintiff’s sex 14 were different.” (Doc. 46, p. 6). But that is a false distinction. A transgender individual is 15 a person whose gender identity is different from their sex assigned at birth. Discrimination 16 based on transgender status is always discrimination that would not occur but for the 17 person’s sex assigned at birth because, if the person’s sex assigned at birth were different,
18 the person would not be transgender. See Harris Funeral Homes, 884 F.3d at 578
19 (“Because an employer cannot discriminate against an employee for being transgender 20 without considering that employee’s [sex assigned at birth], discrimination on the basis of 21
23

26 _____
27 <sup>2</sup> National Inst. of Health, Genetic & Rare Disease Center: Persistent Mullerian duct
28 syndrome, at <https://rarediseases.info.nih.gov/diseases/8435/persistent-mullerian-duct-syndrome>.

1 transgender status necessarily entails discrimination on the basis of sex [assigned at 2 birth].”). By discriminating against Dr. Toomey based on his transgender status,
3 Defendants are necessarily treating him in a manner that, but for his sex assigned at birth,
4 would be different.

6 III. Conclusion

8 Whether Dr. Toomey’s Title VII claims are analyzed under Price Waterhouse as 9 discrimination based on gender nonconformity or analyzed under Manhart as 10 discrimination that would not occur but for a person’s sex assigned at birth, Dr. Toomey
11 has stated a valid claim for sex discrimination and State Defendant’s Motion to Dismiss 12 should be denied in its entirety.
